Accommodations List for Students with Disabilities cont'd.

		• Student taped response	The student speaks responses into a tape recorder in an isolated setting so that other students cannot benefit or be disturbed. The test examiner must be present at all times.
		• Signed response	The student uses sign language to convey responses. A certified sign language interpreter or deaf education instructor records responses.
		• Pointing to respond	The student points to correct responses and the administrator records responses in the MAP test booklet.
		• Oral response	The student provides oral responses to the test examiner.
		• Use of a braille	A student records responses using a braille. Examples of a braille include a brailewriter, a slate and stylus, or an electronic braille note taker.
		• Use of a communication device	The student uses a communication device to provide responses to the test examiner.
		• Use of a computer/word processor/typewriter to respond	The student uses a computer/word processor to write the responses. (Provide a non-networked computer to avoid inappropriate use of the computer to access answers.) The student uses a typewriter to write the responses.
39		Use of a calculator/math table/abacus	In sessions of the MAP where calculators are allowed to be used, the accommodation code should not be marked. The use of a calculator represents an accommodation when it is used on a section of the assessment for which calculator use is not allowed. Students may use talking calculators, but only in an isolated setting. Students use tables to assist in simple addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division facts using whole numbers. Students use an abacus to perform mathematical computations by sliding beads along rods.
